JEFFRIES SAYS HE WAS DRUGGED BY SOME TRAITOR

Did Not Recover From Effects
Until He Had Been Month
at Catalina.

He Will Never be Induced to Re-enter Ring.

FATAL FISHING EXCURSION.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—"I am through with the fight game, I shall never step into the ring again. This is absolutely final." The Los Angeles Record so today reports James J. Jeffries, who told "Willie" Jacobs, the sporting writer, that "No amount of money will ever tempt me and no promoter will ever induce me to take another fling in the ring game. I have all the money I need. I am positive I was the victim of treachery. Something was done to me. It was impossible to break down so suddenly unless this was so. Eight days before the fight I took a fishing trip and had breakfast while out. From then I was never myself. I wanted to sleep all the time until two weeks ago. I suspect one pretending to be friendly to me, doped me."

Regarding the dope, Jeffries continued: "At first I thought I had been working too much and that a couple of days' rest would fix me up. But the laziness never left me. I was attacked by dysentery. To show how strong it was handed to me I did not recover from either the dope or the dysentery until I had been at Catalina two weeks."

Riverside Staff.

The new staff of Riverside hospital for the month of August, September and October went into effect today. The staff is: Surgical—Dr. P. H. Stewart and Dr. R. E. Hearne; medical—Dr. W. H. Parsons and Dr. B. A. Washburn; obstetrics—Dr. S. Z. Holland; genito-urinary—Dr. H. H. Duley; anesthetist, Dr. W. J. Bass; ear, eye, nose and throat, Dr. H. G. Reynolds.

Victim of White Plague.

Maggie Cherry, 34 years old, died at Riverside hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday morning after a long illness of consumption. She was admitted for treatment July 16. The body was taken to Nance & Rogers. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Miss Geneva Parham returned this morning from east Tennessee, where she has been on a visit.

Mr. Lewis L. Beabout arrived last night from Baltimore. He will leave tonight for Tennessee on business.

DAN PATCH WINNER OF MOTORBOAT RACE

By a margin of 14 minutes, "Dan Patch," the swift motor boat of J. T. (Bud) Quarles, covered the distance of 28 miles on the Mississippi river at Memphis yesterday, and defeated the "Yankee Girl," one of the fastest launches on the river. The boat was passed by Book Owks, while Walter Wilkins was captain. Mr. Quarles was convinced that his boat was one of the fastest on the inland waters, is especially proud of the record made by his boat. The race was scheduled for last week, but was delayed. This evening Mr. Quarles and Fred Mitchell will leave for Memphis to bring back the "Dan Patch." Down stream the distance between Paducah and Memphis was covered in 19 hours, 20 minutes and 40 seconds, and the trip upstream will be watched with as much interest.

Night Riders "Remove" Witness at Lamasco Barbecue--The Soldiers on Guard Making Several Arrests

Axion Cooper, Cousin of Milton Oliver, Dies of the Wounds Received During Melee Saturday.

Kuttawa, Ky., Aug. 1. (Special)—Another witness against the Caldwell-Lyon-Trigg night riders, under indictment in Christian county, has been put out of the way with bullets, Axion Cooper, a young man, cousin of Milton Oliver, the witness who was shot near his home, was shot and fatally wounded Saturday afternoon at a barbecue at Lamasco. He died this morning.

Cooper lived on the farm of Milton Oliver, the chief witness, who was wounded some time ago. Civil county authorities have demanded the prisoners. There is much feeling and a chance for trouble.

There was a large crowd present and bootleggers were plying their trade actively. Just how the trouble started it is not known; but it is believed the whole affair was planned for the purpose of putting Cooper out of the way. He was the only person injured during the melee.

Soldiers have been on guard in that section ever since the shooting of Milton Oliver, as repeated attempts have been made to finish him. They rushed to the scene and arrested several alleged participants. Among the prisoners are Alonzo Gray, a man named Hawkins and one named Mitchell.

Fails to Appear.

Morganfield, Ky., Aug. 1. (Special)—Dr. J. D. Bishop, accused of assaulting a 13-year-old girl named Sayers, at Henshaw, was arrested Saturday, failed to appear for his examining trial today.

Alleged Bogus Draft

The police are looking for E. J. Stanzenberg, whom it is alleged, passed a bogus draft on Mills-Guedy Grocery company. The draft was for $25. No trace of Stanzenberg has been found.

Mark Twain Shaft for Heidelberg.

Heidelberg, Aug. 1.—The American colony at Heidelberg has decided to erect a statue of Mark Twain in Heidelberg, where he conceived the idea of writing "A Tramp Abroad." The necessary funds for the statue already have been subscribed.

July was a busy month for the police department, a total of 231 arrests being made. The summary is as follows: Drunk and disorderly, 10; drunks, 26; breach of ordinance, 43; breach of peace, 50; wilful murder, 1; violation of Sabbath, 1; selling liquor without a license, 2; furnishing liquor to minors, 5; immorality, 23; trespassing, 1; malicious cutting, 5; carrying concealed a deadly weapon, 2; fugitives from justice, 3; mayhem, 1; cutting in sudden heat and passion, 1; having carnal knowledge of female under 16 years old, 1; disorderly conduct, 9; obtaining money by false pretenses, 1; sleeping in a box car, 4; malicious shooting, 2; gaming, 12; grand larceny, 2; housebreaking, 1; counterfeiting, 1; conspiracy, 4; flourishing a gun, 1; harboring a vicious dog, 1; malicious assault, 1; speeding, 2; petit larceny, 3; disorderly house, 1; fast driving, 1.

Fire Department.

Twelve fire alarms were answered by the fire companies during the month of July. Not an alarm was false and every time that the gong hit the fire laddies had something to do. However, the fire loss will be light. The largest fire of the month was the destruction of the storage shed of Bradley Brothers, on July 23. On the morning of July 26 the firemen had to combat two fires at the same time.

Revenue Report.

July was a dull month in the sale of revenue stamps. It was one of the lightest months since the term of office of Ira C. Beyerly, deputy stamp collector. The report is: Receipts, beer stamps, $2,650; spirit stamps, $4,859.80; cigar and cigarette, $153.30 tobacco, $490; total collections, $7,463.74. Balance July 1, $23,924.04; receipts $19,579.50; sales, $8,417.33 balance August 1, $34,186.21. The stamps issued were: Distillers, 33;

COULSON TAKES STAND IN SPITE OF HIS COUNSEL

Says He Overcharged City in City Hall Work by Reason of Conspiracy.

First Met Upon Bank of Silent River.

ARTS & TALBOT DON'T TALK.

Mart Coulson ignored his attorney's advice not to testify at the preliminary hearing of the alleged plumbers' trust in police court this morning and told about his own exorbitant profits.

After a delay of half an hour the trial was begun at 10:30 o'clock. Attorney R. T. Lightfoot entered a demurrer to the warrant on the grounds that it did not allege the agreed price of materials; but Judge Cross overruled it, holding that no fixed price had been maintained, owing to fluctuation.

City Auditor Alex Kirkland was sworn and turned over the specifications for the construction of the third story addition to the city hall. Contractor Jack Cole was called for, but failing to answer, the Commonwealth introduced Mart M. Coulson, after objections of Attorney Lightfoot as to the legality of his testimony, owing to his being a defendant. The court overruled the objections.

Attorney Lightfoot warned Mr. Coulson not to answer any questions, saying that all evidence he gave might be used against him by the prosecution in any further prosecution. Inspector Dew believes Miss Leneve had no hand in the killing of Crippen's wife. Passengers of the Montrose are of the same opinion. They say the man was nervous and worried on the trip. The girl was gay and happy except for fits of depression. The couple might not have been suspected except for the feeble disguise of the girl. She is small and well built, and male attire could not conceal her delicate outlines. Mrs. Nepper, a passenger, told of seeing the "boy" stumble and fall. She said: "He uttered a scream like a girl. She had told her fellow passengers she believed 'Robinson's son' was a girl." Stewards also suspected her from her actions at table and her laugh. When taken from the Montrose she wore a long loose gown, furnished by the stewardess. She laid on the cab seat, half fainting.

He then told of the alleged "trust" formed by himself and Messrs. Hannan, Arts and Talbot. He said they had several meetings and agreed to get together and divide up work. He said he was to have the city hall job, Mr. Hannan the fire station and Arts & Talbot the Frederick flats on North Sixth street. He said he was to put in a bid on the city hall work and the others in the conspiracy were to send in higher bids than his. The same plan, he said, was carried out on other work so as to let the others have their defined work. He said Mr. Hannan's price on the fire station work was about $900 over what it should have been.

He said their first agreement was in August, 1909, and the first meeting was held on the river bank at the foot of Washington street. They held a second meeting he said a few nights afterwards at Mr. Hannan's shop. He explained that they would bid each other what they would bid and the one appointed to get the work would get it. When cross-examined by Mr. Lightfoot, he said there was no agreement on specific items or fixtures, but on the whole job. Mr. Coulson said he "bucked" against Arts & Talbot on the Frederick flats job, because they were going too high.

Examined by Attorney W. A. Berry, Mr. Coulson admitted that he over-charged $150 on the city hall third story work, or in other words, he could have reduced his bid that much and made a good profit. The market price he said varied, Contractor Jack Cole, for whom an attachment had been issued, was called. He said he was the successful bidder on the city hall and fire station work and received bids from each of the defendants. He considered them reasonable enough.

Mr. Coulson was recalled. He said he put in his bid on the city hall plumbing and Mr. Hannan told him it was too high. Mr. Coulson said he was in for the money and he "bucked" when he found out everything wasn't going along as it ought to.

The trial was adjourned until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

County Attorney Clay was sworn this afternoon and said Coulson and Arts & Talbot explained the purpose of the conspiracy at his office last week. He also said that today Mr. Talbot told him they conspired to raise the price of material above the market price and that Mr. Hannan made something near $1,000 on the central fire station job.

Mr. Coulson was recalled, but was unable to state the fixed market price, which seemed to the chief witness to be the case hinged on.

R. T. Young, bookkeeper for Arts & Talbot, denied any knowledge of Mr. Hannan turning in bids to Arts & Talbot.

Both sides rested at 2 o'clock this afternoon and arguments were made.

Crippen and Miss Leneve Caught and Placed Behind Bars at Quebec; Scotland Yards Has More Evidence

London Murderer Blanches
When Inspector Dew Arrests Him--Girl Goes Into Hysterics at Sight.

Quebec, Aug. 1.—Crippen and Miss Leneve are behind the bars, closely guarded in jail at the Parliament house. The Montrose arriving at the dock at 1:30 this morning was greeted by a tremendous crowd of curious and a squad of fifty police-men.

Crippen is sullen and silent. Miss Leneve is almost a physical wreck. She wrings her hands and moans pitifully. She hasn't slept since her arrest. Precautions to prevent suicide and evidently well advised as small envelopes, containing what is believed to be poison were found on Crippen.

The girl threw something from the window when she was arrested. It is believed to have been Crippen's revolver. It was discovered the girl wore heavy canvas harness to prevent showing her girlish figure through the masculine clothes.

Crippen had canvas about his body, containing valuable jewels. Captain Kendall refuses to talk or be called as witness to the arrangements today. Passengers tell of incidents of suspecting the girl on the trip.

Miss Leneve's Disguise.

Quebec, Canada, Aug. 1.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen and Ethel Clare Leneve, his stenographer, who fled from London after the disappearance of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife, were arrested here Sunday aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose, at the command of Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard.

The identification of the long-sought fugitives on board the shrouded steamer by the English detective who had raced across the Atlantic ahead of the Montrose, marked the culmination of one of the most sensational flights in recent criminal annals.

Mr. Campbell Returns.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell returned Sunday from Lexington. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell have just completed a 2,600 mile tour of eastern Kentucky in their motor car, and have had a splendid trip. Mr. Campbell will be busy the next few months getting ready for his tobacco season, and will have an auction house here, as he has had the past two seasons.

ICE CREAM CONE TO BE ANALYZED

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WILL FIND OUT KIND OF MATERIAL USED HERE.

At a meeting of the board of health this afternoon at the office of Mayor Smith at the city hall Dr. S. Z. Holland, city health officer, was authorized to procure an ice cream cone, against which a national fight is now being made, and have it analyzed to ascertain the ingredients. The analysis will probably be made by Dr. G. C. McKinley at the Illinois Central railroad hospital and should it result in improper materials being used the board will prohibit their future sale here.

A few years ago the city was compelled to limit the manufacture of cones here as it was found that many were made in unsanitary places. Many deaths over the United States have resulted from ice cream cones recently.

Other important business is before the board this afternoon. The matter of providing for a city laboratory at the hospital is being discussed.

ROME RECEIVES NO NOTICE THAT SPAIN HAS ACTED

Has Not Recalled Papal Nuncio From Court of King Alfonso.

May Display Further Proof of Sufferance.

QUEER CONDUCT OF PREMIER.

Rome, Aug. 1.—The papal nuncio at Madrid, Mgr. Vico, has not been recalled by the Vatican, which is awaiting the official announcement of the recall by the Spanish government of Marquis de Ojeda, ambassador to the Vatican. The situation with regard to the rupture with Spain, therefore, remains practically unchanged.

The Vatican is greatly offended at the methods adopted by Premier Canalejas in the recall of the Spanish ambassador as the announcement was made through the press, and neither the papal nuncio at Madrid nor the Vatican was notified directly. As a consequence, the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Merry del Val, has not been able to take any measure of retaliation, but it is believed that Mgr. Vico will be instructed to leave Madrid immediately after the official announcement of Marquis de Ojeda's recall is received here.

May Show Tolerance.

The opinion is held in some circles however, that the Vatican will give further proof of its tolerance by permitting the papal nuncio to remain at Madrid, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the Spanish ambassador, as was the case when the French government ordered the French ambassador at the Vatican to return to Paris. On that occasion the papal nuncio, Mgr. Lorenzelli, remained in Paris until diplomatic relations were completely broken off and there are some who still hope that the recall of Marquis de Ojeda is merely temporary, his absence from Rome assuming the nature of a simple vacation, and that he will return when an agreement has been reached.

MISUNDERSTOOD JOHN HUNT CASE

ILLINOI OFFICIALS AGREE TO ASSIST IN HIS RETURN TO KENTUCKY.

The tangle resulting in the refusing of the Illinois officers to turn over John Hunt, wanted in Paducah on the charge of being the murderer of the unidentified youth on the Pool road April 10, will be straightened out in consequence of a visit of Attorney David Browning to Murphysboro, Ill. He found that the Illinois officers were misinformed and they will now render aid in securing the reinstatement of the requisition papers, which were revoked by Governor Deneen. As soon as the papers may be corrected and reinstated somebody will be sent to Murphysboro after Hunt, who is in jail on the charge of robbery.

The action of the officers in refusing to heed the requisition was a puzzle to Mr. Browning, who left Saturday to investigate. He found that the officers thought Hunt was wanted only as a witness against the two alleged murderers in jail, and that there was practically no evidence against Hunt.

State's Attorney Ike Levy and Sheriff Hanson told Mr. Browning that they could not turn over Hunt to the Kentucky officers since they had a charge of robbery against him. Governor Deneen revoked the requisition. Mr. Browning explained to the Illinois officers that he considered there was a good chance of convicting Hunt of the murder, and that in case of a failure of conviction he would be returned to Illinois.

Oakwood Stock Farm

A Tract of 327 Acres of Fertile Pasture Land

Magnificent Residence, Spacious Barns, Splendid Race Tracks, and All Facilities for Training Standard Bred Horses—One of the Show Places of Western Kentucky Rapidly Acquiring National Fame—R. A. Tyler, Proprietor.

With the decided decrease of activity in the raising of thoroughbred horses, comes a commensurate impetus in the business and interests of breeding and developing the light harness horse. The fast driving-horse is now the ideal animal of the American gentleman, and the demand for American driving trotters has never been greater, is continuously increasing, and has even reached foreign shores. Men of means are familiar with the delights of hunting to hounds, of thrashing to windward in a yacht, of scorching in a motor car; they know the joys of the point to point steeple chase; of polo, and all other forms of outdoor sport; yet, all agree that the acme of human joy is felt only in the thrill that attends the driving of a smooth-going, rapid gaited trotter, at a high rate of speed, and the ticklish sensation one feels when first seated in rakish little speed wagon that is a part of the outfit of a gentleman's stable. The light harness horse is the racing trotter and pacer and must have inheritance and greatest development, intelligence, good temper, kindly disposition or he is unfit either for road or racing. To secure these, men give years of study and attention, and none has been more successful in developing and producing the ideal light harness horse, which constitutes the truest type of the Kentucky horse, than R. A. Tyler, whose magnificent place, Oakwood Stock Farm, is located three miles east of Hickman on the State road.

TRACK AND BARNS—OAKWOOD STOCK FARM.

The farm embraces a tract of 327 acres of fertile, second bottom, above overflow, slightly rolling, and well adapted to the growing of cereals and all kinds of pasture grasses. The tract is handsomely improved, with a magnificent residence, a true type of the Southern Colonial mansion of prosperous times; also good tenant houses, numerous and spacious barns, symmetrical lines of fence, broad green paddocks and meadows. The farms throughout are abundantly watered by a deep well and pipe system, and one of the chiefest attractions on the place is a half-mile track for training the youngsters produced on the farm. The Oakwood Stock Farm has, for several years, been devoted to the breeding of trotting horses, and the owner, R. A. Tyler, has invested a considerable amount of money in securing the purest strains from which he has developed the most perfect individuals of the trotting family. His success is well shown in the enumeration of a few of the inmates of his stables. The grand old horse,

Alfred G., 12,452, 4 Yr. 2:19 1/4, has been one of the great American racers in his day, starting 16 times and never out of the money. He is a dark bay, 15-3, fine bone and muscle, a splendid conformation both pleasing to the eye and indicative of great power and endurance. Alfred G. is now in his 26th year, but is sprightly and vigorous as a 4 year old, and can show a 2:20 clip any day without effort or urging. His vitality is such, that time passes by him without leaving a trace. His pedigree is all that could be desired. He is by Anteo, 7,868, 2:18 1/2; the greatest producing son of Electroneer, 125 (sire of 160 and dam of 49 in the list). Alfred G, with very limited opportunities, has placed more than 70 to his credit, and is the sire of many producing dams, as a sire his roll containing such as The Iron Horse, Charley Herr, 2:07, Annie Lee, 2:07 1/4, Sister Collette, 2:09 1/4, (public tr. 2:06), Queen B, 2:11, sire of the long line of honorable ancestry. He is a progenitor of early and extreme gar description; his conformation, which indicates extreme speed and high ability to transmit; and the well known fact that he is a fast trotter of superb gait, attracts the attention of progressive owners of brood mares. He is a bay, 15-3%, weighs 1,200 pounds; of great substance, finely formed, handsome, spirited, and a worthy son of the long line of honorable ancestry. He is also breeding the famous Kentucky speed, as shown by the records of saddle horse, which enjoys an equal popularity with the light harness horses. At the head of this department is:

Irascible Squirrel, 2,808, a superb black horse, 16 hands high, weighing 1,200 pounds, splendid legs and feet, grand style and action, intelligent, with good disposition, and perfectly gaited. He is a saddle horse in the true sense, as well as a high actor. He imparts his gait with his splendid qualities to his get, making him one of the greatest sires in the state. He is by Richmond within the past few years, introduced the breeding of

Fine Short Horn Cattle, and in starting this business, secured a fashionably bred herd of cattle for a nucleus. At the head of the herd was Valiant 3rd, a roan bull, weighing at 3 years old, 2,200 pounds. It now has at the head of the herd Oakwood Baron, a roan bull, weighing 1,440 pounds at 25 months old. The herd consists of a splendid drove of cows and heifers, among them being Maud Sharon, a famous prize winner in show rings. This breed of short horns is noted

ALFRED G.—RECORD 2:19 1/4—OAKWOOD STOCK FARM.

Squirrel, by Black Squirrel, his 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th dams were all noted saddlers. He is one of the most superbly bred saddle-horses in the country, his ancestral strain being unsullied by any other quality. The Oakwood Stock Farm has also some splendid registered saddle fillies, by Eagle Dare, that will make great show mares, which were bred to Irascible Squirrel. All of these horses have the points indicating the strength and power which will stamp the impress of their superb qualities upon their descendants so strongly as to influence the production of better horses in the western section of Kentucky, bringing wealth to the breeders in this part of the country. R. A. Tyler is a lover of fine horses, and while not a racing man, takes great pride in developing driving horses which can make speed, comparing well with many of the great racers of the day. He is known as a clean sportsman and devotes his best attention and interests to the development of horses which will be a pleasure as well as a profit to their owners. Mr. Tyler has for its prolific production of milk and butter, as well as its desirability for beef. Oakwood farms are also devoted to the breeding of pure Berkshire hogs, which are developed to their highest degree. Mr. Tyler has, through his introduction of this finely bred stock, advanced the business of stock raising in this part of the country. Oakwood Stock farms are Mr. Tyler's enthusiasm, and a cordial welcome awaits all visitors, while any information regarding stock pedigrees, terms to breeders, etc., will be promptly furnished upon application. The health of all stock on the farm is attended to by a veterinary surgeon who is a graduate of a Chicago Veterinary College, of 24 years actual experience. He gives special attention to the mares brought to the farm to foal, and the animals are at all times kept in the finest condition. The Oakwood Stock Farm stands in the most interesting relation to Western Kentucky, and keeps the reputation of the great Kentucky harness horse and saddler up to the highest possible standard of excellence.

The John S. Hopkins will be the Evansville boat tomorrow.

The J. B. Richardson, which left here 24 hours late Friday, is due this afternoon or tonight from Nashville, and leaves immediately.

The Clyde is due out of the Tennessee. She will probably go to Pace's Landing, Mo., for another load of wheat.

The G. W. Robertson returned from Cairo at midnight last night. She took a record-breaking crowd there.

The Dick Fowler left on time for Cairo this morning and is due back tonight.

The Ohio and Cowling arrived on time today from their respective ports, each doing a good business.

During July the river here fell 14 days and rose 17 days. The highest stage was 21 feet and the lowest was yesterday, 13.5 feet. Total precipitation was 11.40 inches.

Keep Baby Healthy in Summer

It is easier to keep some children in health in winter than in summer. And yet it is very important that the child should be strong and well during the hot weather. In the first place, a very little ill is liable to develop into a large one in summer because of the germs in milk, water and many kinds of food. You should be especially careful not to allow your children to become irregular in their stools during the heat term. The best relief you can give it, and the surest permanent cure, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the guaranteed laxative-tonic. It is exactly suited to the needs of children because it is gentle and mild in action, absolute and efficiently. Thousands of mothers keep it constantly in the house against emergencies, and as a bottle costs only 50 cents or $1.00, and can be conveniently obtained of any druggist, no family should be without it. If you are one who has never tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and would like to do so before buying it in the regular way, you can obtain a FREE BOTTLE by sending your address to

CONDEMNATION BY OWN JUDGMENT

REPENTANCE ESSENTIAL CONDITION PRECEDENT TO PEACE

The Rev. Charles Stokes Preaches at First Presbyterian Church.

PASTORS' MEETING IS CALLED

"Condemnation" was the theme of the Rev. Charles Stokes' discourse at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, taking his text from John xvi: "He that believeth on Him is not condemned; but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten son of God."

We have an intuitive sense of justice and equity; we have a trained conscience which discerns right and wrong, said Mr. Stokes, and it is sufficient—though I do not say it is the full extent of condemnation—that we be left to our own judgment. The conditions require nothing more in the way of punishment than that the God should leave the world in its sin and sense of wrong, wherein we become our own judge, jury and executioner.

The human mind has the faculty of banishing from consciousness error and wrong doing, and develops a tendency to exercise that faculty in a desire for peace; but always it will come back into consciousness at the most inopportune time to embarrass and distress us. There is no hiding from God; there is no hiding from that innate sense of justice which God has implanted in us. There can be no peace, no development, no progress until we have put ourselves once more into harmony with the divine order, repented and received forgiveness; and no erudition, technical knowledge of ethics or theology is essential to a knowledge that forgiveness has been secured. God has seen to that. Forgiveness of our fellow man is necessary to our social rehabilitation, but this will not pass as a substitute for divine forgiveness. Then there is another side: forgiveness does not carry with it absolution from the temporal results of wrong doing. Here is a point overlooked too frequently. We transgress and there is an inevitable sequence of results that no repentance can serve to stop. God leaves us to ourselves to make atonement, to set aright as well as we may the consequences of our own digression from righteousness, and we should, therefore, walk circumspectly, not expecting God to

Watson published the following: "Hardwick has been buying up affidavits which he proposes to use on me in my home town. The abuse of me by Hardwick in Thomson has gone far enough, and it has got to stop."

Hardwick's friends say he will keep his appointments at Thomson despite Watson's call for armed men. It is feared bloodshed may result.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Black Duck, Minn.—"About a year ago I wrote you that I was sick and could not do any of my housework. My sickness was called Retroflexion. When I would sit down I felt as if I could not get up. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and did just as you told me and now I am perfectly cured, and have a big baby boy."

Mrs. Anna Anderson, Box 19, Black Duck, Minn.

Consider This Advice.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free,

News of Theatres

For the first three days of the week, commencing Monday, "The Hillions," in the "Twentieth Century Novelty" will open an engagement. They are exceptionally clever people and have a fine act, introducing singing, dancing and comedy acrobatic stunts.

The Derickes have a very swell musical act with much comedy interspersed. At Nashville, Tenn., they were the big hit of the bill at Fifth avenue theater, and should please the patrons of the Star.

Another new and fine illustrated song will be given by Paducah's favorite singer, Frank Long, and two new reels of motion pictures at each performance. Admission 19c, children 5c.

Broadway Methodist.

There were unusually large congregations at the Broadway Methodist church yesterday to hear Dr. G. T. Sullivan preach in the morning and there was a song service in the evening. Dr. Sullivan preached a splendid sermon in the morning, taking for his subject "Phillip, the Evangelist, and His Illustrious Convert." There were two additions to the church at the morning service and Mrs. Leah Wade Lewis sang a beautiful solo before the offertory.

In the evening a splendid song service was rendered under the direction of Mrs. S. H. Winstead.

The Wesley hall, recently completed, was for the first time occupied by the boys' class.

The board of stewards will meet in monthly session this evening at 8 o'clock at the church, and a full attendance is requested.

Pastors to Meet.

By a special call of the president the Protestant Pastors' association will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist church and business matters pertaining to the big revival will be discussed.

Second Baptist.

The Rev. G. B. Smalley preached two good sermons at the Second Baptist church yesterday, taking for the subject of his morning sermon, "Striving for the Master," and in the evening "The Narrow Way."

The attendance was fairly good at both services.

FIGHTING MAD

TOM WATSON AND HARDWICK MAY MIX.

Former Says That Hardwick Has Pushed Him Past the Point of Endurance.

Thomson, Ga., Aug. 1.—Thomas Watson, twice Populist candidate for president, imagines his life is threatened by Congressman Hardwick, and calls on his friends to protect him.

Watson has been bitterly denouncing Hardwick, who is a candidate for re-election, and Hardwick has been replying in kind. Hardwick has announced he would speak here, Watson's home, on August 6, and tell the people just what manner of man Watson is.

Watson published the following:

"Hardwick has been buying up affidavits which he proposes to use on me in my home town. The abuse of me by Hardwick in Thomson has gone far enough, and it has got to stop."

"I'll be present when he speaks on August 6. His effrontery is intolerable. Let every friend of mine who can get here be in Thomson by 9 o'clock in the forenoon."

"Deserters and do-nothings are desperate, and my life is in danger. Let every friend of mine who can do so be at Thomson on August 6, prepared to stand by me to the death."

Hardwick's friends say he will keep his appointments at Thomson despite Watson's call for armed men. It is feared bloodshed may result.

Can't Govern Costume.

"It is probably true," continues the attorney-general, "that when this act was passed congress did not contemplate that any state would designate one or more of its citizens who were then engaged in warlike rebellion against the government of the United States as persons illustrious for their historic renown or distinguished civic or military services, such as each state shall deem to be worthy of this national commemoration, and when so furnished the same shall be placed in the old hall for the purpose, in the capitol of the United States, which is set aside, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for a national statuary hall for the purpose herein indicated."

States Not Restricted.

"It is probably true," continues the attorney-general, "that when this act was passed congress placed no limitation in the act upon the exercise of the discretion of any state in selecting those persons whom it may deem to be worthy of this national commemoration."

Daily Thought.
Those who are greedy of praise prove that they are poor in merit.—Plutarch.

Resentment is poison to the soul.

Most anything that happens to Spain, now, may be listed among the things coming to her.

Our idea of being broke is to send a check to Frankfort for the auto tax and have it returned "no funds."

Mr. Bryan now knows that you can lead a forlorn hope to water, but you can't make it drink.

Joseph Wendling killed a child in Louisville and got away; but nobody ever flirted with a Texas widow and escaped.

The vanity of an age is expressed in the cry of Wider, the Russo-Jap bank defaulter. "My friends were living better than I."

Wendling and Crippen are caught. It remains now only to find Dr. Cook and the Pool road murderer, and get somebody to run for governor of Minnesota.

The Italian court need not object now to the alliance of Duc D'Abruzzi with Miss Catherine Elkins since she has been numbered among the American peerage.

What has become of the old-fashioned couples, who used to marry for love and make a home afterwards? Nowadays they seem to marry for a home and make love afterwards.

Complaint because the proposed lock and dam for the Ohio was not located further down is scarcely becoming of us. Since the double track bridge is to be located here, there is nothing left for Evansville and Henderson but to dam the river.

Every time Owensboro has a disastrous flood the Louisville papers refer to it as a flood "in western Kentucky." It is true, perhaps, that most people don't know where Owensboro is; but we protest against such generalization. Jackson's Purchase never before realized such crops as are growing on the hillsides and in the bottoms today.

A Connecticut dairyman has discovered that music has peculiar charms for a cow, which proves of great advantage at milking time. Can't you just see a blonde muliey cow with large, soulful eyes and bangs, listening to a Caruso record, oblivious to the fact that the hired man behind the scenes is outraging every aesthetic feeling? Thus does the gross materialism of a progressive age link spirituality with mechanical invention. We presume it would be too expensive to hire Caruso to do the milking or to teach the chore boys to sing.

Cracken county does not appear high in the list of counties with permanently improved roads. The counties showing the longest mileage are: Anderson, 200; Bourbon, 305; Boyle, 100; Bracken, 180; Carroll, 120; Christian, 200; Clark, 189; Fayette, 360; Fleming, 212; Franklin, 255; Grant, 450; Harrison, 310; Jefferson, 240; Jessamine, 160; Kenton, 200; Madison, 325; Mercer, 203; Nelson, 250; Nicholas, 225; Pendleton, 288; Scott, 375; Shelby, 350; Washington, 215; Woodford, 210. Of Bourbon's total road mileage, only 25 are not macadamized, of Fayette's 375 total mileage 15 miles are not macadamized; of Scott's 400 miles all but 25 are macadamized.

According to the pamphlet issued by the secretary of agriculture, Kentucky has 57,137 miles of public roads. Of this number, 1,498 miles are surfaced with gravel and 8,075 with stone, making 9,486 miles of improved roads. Many of these have been built and maintained by turnpike companies, while others have been constructed by counties from funds raised on bond issues. It will be seen that sixteen per cent of the roads have been improved. By comparing the total road mileage with the area of the state it appears that there was 1.5 miles of public road to every square mile of area. A comparison of mileage with population shows that there is one mile of road to every 37 inhabitants, and one mile of improved road to every 265 inhabitants.

THE WRONG IDEA.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries are taking the wrong view of the Ohio political situation. For instance, the Lexington Herald says:

Whatever the result of the Ohio convention may have been to the little politicians who have taken the place of the late Mark Hanna and later of Foraker and Dick in the direction of the party affairs of the Republicans in Ohio it certainly was no victory for President Taft. While the president would say nothing of candidates and while he seemed to be honestly indifferent as to the nominated, it was pretty well known that in moving heaven and earth to secure the nomination of Congressman Longworth, Wade H. Ellis was simply following a course that Taft had previously approved.

The Republican convention of Ohio also showed the first signs of a return to popularity of the old war horse Joseph Benson Foraker. Warren G. Harding, the candidate for governor, is and has always been, a Foraker man—one of those who were with the senator right or wrong, regardless of personal ambition or the danger to personal ambition.

One of the most remarkable facts that has been noted in connection with the career of the brilliant Ohio senator has been this blind loyalty of his friends.

Whatever may be said of George B. Cox it can not be said of him that he talks one way and votes another. In giving to Taft a nominee he did not want, Mr. Cox returns to the bankers of Louisville have pledged themselves to support a reform bill touching bank taxation at the next legislature, and that this bill will materially lift a burden which is now a source of unending complaint for all bankers, throughout the state.

The spectacle of President Taft trying to force on Nicholas Longworth the nomination for governor, when Longworth himself was fighting against it would be ridiculous indeed, if it had existed. On the other hand, the nomination of A. Foraker man was the strongest card politically the Republicans in Ohio could play. It brought to the support of the ticket a strong element, heretofore coldly hostile to the Taft administration, while the platform is unequivocally progressive.

The main argument of the Democrats is the superiority of their candidate, the record of the administration and the necessity for further reform in state affairs. If they would cling to these merits, instead of deceiving themselves into believing the Republicans did not play good politics in the state convention, they would save themselves many explanations after the election.

A Disgraceful Affair.

From all reports the "rough house" at police headquarters Friday night was one of the most disgraceful affairs in police circles within our knowledge, and it behooves the city council to investigate the matter thoroughly that the blame may be placed where it belongs and that the officer at fault may be disciplined as the offense justifies. We are not concerned and do not care a rap about any personal animosities existing between Officers Posey and Hellbronner, but we are, with the public in general, concerned in the decent and lawful conduct of our police officials, and the mayor and council should see to it that in this instance the officer in fault is disciplined and for a second offense dismissed from the service.—Henderson Gleaner.

Lexington's Plan.

Eighty of the leading merchants of Lexington have agreed to have special sales during the period from August 1st to August 13th, each vying with the other in offering goods at such prices as to tempt prospective purchasers. The railroads entering Lexington have agreed to make reduced rates during this time to those who desire to come to Lexington, either to purchase goods, to attend the Fair, or for any other reason, the opportunity so to do. If the experiment made by the merchants of Lexington in offering for a limited period goods at rock bottom prices is the success anticipated, it probably will become a permanent custom which will be of benefit not only to Lexington, but to every buyer in the Blue Grass, whether it be a buyer of dress goods for women, of clothes for men, of farming implements, of sporting goods, of shoes, of vehicles, whether horse-pulled or gasoline driven. The experiment this year, therefore, is of particular interest and importance, and that will be recognized by the merchants and emphasized by the prices they will make for the goods they have to sell.—Lexington Herald.

Want Change in Laws.

Telling reform in Kentucky's system of taxation affecting the banking institutions of the state was given impetus when, at an informal meeting of representatives of seven national banks in Louisville, held in the directors' room of the American National bank, the plan of immediately launching a scheme for taxation reform was discussed.

It is understood, that the bankers of Louisville have pledged themselves to support a reform bill touching bank taxation at the next legislature.

It is understood, that the bankers of Louisville have pledged themselves to support a reform bill touching bank taxation at the next legislature, and that this bill will materially lift a burden which is now a source of unending complaint for all bankers, throughout the state.

At the present time, it is pointed out, the laws governing the taxation of financial institutions in the state are so onerous that capitalists and others interested, when their earnings warrant, invest surplus capital in outside enterprises rather than submit to the high tax rate prevailing in the state.

That this rate has militated against larger capitalized institutions in Kentucky is the statement of one prominent local banker, and he says this is demonstrated by the fact that at the present time only two banks exist in the state whose capital reaches the $1,000,000 mark or slightly above it. His statement is further borne out by the fact that in St. Louis there are at least seven financial institutions whose capital reaches the $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 mark.—Louisville Herald.

Here is a simple little suggestion which a physician and philanthropist offers as "an infallible cure" for many ailments. It has the virtue of being inexpensive, and harmless. He says: Lemonize your stomach. Fermentation of food is the cause of many ailments. Take after a meal the clear juice of a well rolled lemon, strained through a double layer of cheese cloth; drink or draw through a straw on one breath. In chronic cases: take the juice of a small half of a lemon after breakfast; the larger half after the noon meal, and the juice of one lemon after the evening meal. It is recommended for all forms of stomach trouble, and torpid liver.

A Disgraceful Affair.

From all reports the "rough house" at police headquarters Friday night was one of the most disgraceful affairs in police circles within our knowledge, and it behooves the city council to investigate the matter thoroughly that the blame may be placed where it belongs and that the officer at fault may be disciplined as the offense justifies. We are not concerned and do not care a rap about any personal animosities existing between Officers Posey and Hellbronner, but we are, with the public in general, concerned in the decent and lawful conduct of our police officials, and the mayor and council should see to it that in this instance the officer in fault is disciplined and for a second offense dismissed from the service.—Henderson Gleaner.

GEODETIC SURVEY AGAIN HIT

Mercantile Marine Interests File
Charges of Incompetency.

Washington, Aug. 1.—In a brief filed with the senate committee on commerce by Colonel A. J. Gordon Kane, representing mercantile marine interests, charges of incompetency, unreliable charting, favoritism and the conversion of the government marine to private uses are made against the United States coast and geodetic survey. The charges follow a long fight made by the navy department, supported by mercantile interests, to abolish the coast and geodetic survey and to absorb its functions, the navy having persistently asked a congressional investigation of the service.

The Reason Why.

One of the traveling salesmen of our town came home to spend the holidays with his family, a wife and small daughter.

Everything went lovely until the day arrived for his return to duties, when his young daughter was very reluctant about letting him go.

The conversation ran thus:

Father—Why do you care if I go away? I'm no relation of yours, am I?
Child—Yes you are! You're my father by marriage.

Father—Well! Then how is your mother related to you?

Child—She's my mother by birth.

MARKET SAVED BY BANK SYNDICATE

WHEN FOREIGN SPECULATIVE CLIQUE WENT TO PIECES.

Monetary Situation Shows Improvement and Crop Outlook Is Good.

BUSINESS CONDITION MIXED.

New York, Aug. 1. (Special)—The breakdown of a speculative clique, which sought to link up a series of disconnected lines into a new continental system, proved to be at the bottom of the collapse in values which occurred in Monday's and Tuesday's market. The taking over of these securities by a strong international banking syndicate unquestionably saved the market from a worse crash, and produced a radical change for the better in the technical situation. As soon as the facts became known liquidation ceased, and a sharp rebound followed, which was materially accelerated by a rush to cover outstanding shorts. The extreme pessimism bred by the mysterious decline of last week suddenly disappeared and the whole market displayed a better and more normal tone and checked the growing wave of pessimism was the report of the United States Steel Co., which showed handsome profits for the past quarter and a smaller falling off in orders on hand than was really anticipated. As the steel trade is still considered one of the best industrial barometers, the effect of this report was naturally stimulating.

The monetary situation shows further improvement. Local bank resources continue to rise, and there is much less apprehension of severe monetary stringency during the coming fall than at one time existed.

What with liquidation in stocks and declining values in commodities and securities, money goes much further than six months ago, especially in view of the shrinkage in volume of business and speculation. The last statement of national banks may have been unsatisfactory owing to the small contraction in loans at the interior, but recently farmers have been marketing their crops more freely and liquidation from this and other sources will probably result in a much better showing for the interior banks when the next call is issued. Gold imports continue on an increasing scale, and there is every indication that we will command all of the precious metal that we need.

Europe's heavy investments in our securities have been offset by the foreign trade balance. The tendency in our foreign trade is towards improvement, because the decline in commodities puts us upon a more favorable export basis and tends to restrain importations. While some stringency may be anticipated during the crop season, there is much less danger of a crisis in this respect than formerly. Should any of the bankers agree to form currency associations that will be a further protection against a crisis, which in view of the inability of the government to assist the market in an emergency would seem to be a desirable alternative. No one pretends that these associations are a final cure for our currency evils, but they would at least prove an efficient palliative until genuine currency reform can be established.

Crops.

The crop outlook is not entirely satisfactory. The yield of wheat, cotton and corn is likely to fall below early calculations. The loss in wheat has already been amply discounted and is not serious. Much deterioration, however, has taken place in cotton, and the corn crop has likewise lost ground to some extent. Both of these crops are still in danger of early frosts, and disaster to either would, under present conditions have a very serious effect upon business.

The country was urgently in need of a large cotton crop, but the outlook is now for a 12,000,000 bale yield, which is below normal and means continued high prices for cotton.

The effect of this upon the domestic industry and upon our export trade must be taken into consideration. Our main hope regarding the crops still centers upon corn. Should this prove a bumper yield it will do much towards offsetting any loss in wheat and cotton. The result, however, will be to leave the agricultural situation spotty. Some of our farmers will enjoy another season of exceptional profits, while others must endure serious loss.

Business.

The business outlook is mixed; both bright and doubtful in spots. A very conservative disposition exists among those who lead in both commercial and industrial affairs. Reaction had begun with varying force in different industries. Values had been declining, and it is generally recognized that industrial interests of the country must face some readjustment. This process is unpleasant while it continues, but will in the end leave both commerce and industry upon a stronger and sounder basis. The reaction which began in stocks must extend more or less into probability the stock market has fully discounted any industrial depression. This is so regarding the railroads at least, for the latter having various resources always suffer less in business depression than individual industries. Moreover, the railroads are confidently looking forward to permission from the interstate commerce commissioners to advance freight rates later on.

As for the political outlook, that is still unsettled. The fall campaign is just beginning and may develop disturbing influences. At the same time both government officials and local politicians are beginning to learn that blind attacks upon capital are quite likely to injure their own prospects as well as those of their party. There has been a decided toning down of hostility towards corporations, which betokens more rational treatment of the latter in the future.

The market has now had a sharp rally and on any further advance the taking of profits would be in order. The big banking interests are showing more confidence in the future and seem willing to express their belief in the general soundness of the present financial situation though not inclined to support any prolonged bull movement. In such quarters the present situation as to the business and crop outlook is well understood, and no disposition is shown to finance any great stock market activity until the monetary and political outlook is clarified. So far as Wall street is concerned the outlook has improved, and the indications point to a much better market. Securities bought on conservative lines are likely to prove profitable investments. Stocks have suffered shrinkage of nearly $2,000,000,000 during the past six months and are fairly entitled to a substantial recovery.

WHAT IS WHITE OAK OF COMMERCE

QUESTION GOVERNMENT HAS TO DECIDE.

It is Becoming Scarce and Substitutes Are Generally Used in Trade.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE OAK

Washington, D. C., August 1. (Special)—It will surprise most persons who know something about oak to be told that the co-called white oak timber of our markets is often a mixture not only of various species of the white oak group but also of other species, such as the red oak. This generally unknown fact is reported by the United States department of agriculture, which, as a part of its forestry work, is frequently called upon to pass judgment upon the identity of market woods in dispute.

Foresters divide all the oaks into two distinct groups—the white oak group and the black oak group. One way of distinguishing the two is by the fact that the black oaks require two years to mature their acorns, while the white oaks take but one. The woods of the two groups of oaks are also structurally different. The true white oak, known to botanists as Quercus alba, is merely one of the species which make up the white oak group. Red oak, on the other hand, belongs to the black oak group. Red oak has a number of other common names, among them mountain oak, black oak, and Spanish oak.

There is so much confusion in the ordinary use of names of the oaks that it is almost impossible to keep them straight without resorting to the scientific names, but the marketing of wood of the black oak group as white oak is hardly fair to the consumer. Red oak, for instance, is now much more abundant than white oak, grows faster, and is generally regarded as inferior. The two species often grow together and occupy the same general region.

In the early days of its abundance, market white oak was derived almost entirely, it is safe to say, from Quercus alba, the true white oak. This species combines approximately the utmost strength and toughness of any of the timber oaks, excepting possibly the southern live oak, which in the colonial days was so highly prized for ship building that it was protected by special laws. The immense inroads made upon the then apparently inexhaustible white oak forests, which stretched from the Atlantic seaboard to about Missouri, gradually so reduced the supply that the use of other species became inevitable.

At the present time it is almost impossible to obtain a consignment of white oak that does not contain pieces of some other species.

Of the white oak group those most used, in addition to the true white oak, are bur oak, chestnut oak, chinquapin oak, post oak, swamp white oak, cow oak, and overcup oak; of the black oak group, Texas red oak, red oak, and spotted or water oak.

Real white oak timber of number one quality is very largely cut into quarter-sawed boards, while a combination of one or more white oaks and red oak may constitute other cuts of "white oak." In many markets the term "cabinet white oak" is now understood to include a mixture of white oak and red oak, while it often signifies red oak only.

The question, "What is white oak?" is now coming up among consumers and manufacturers of commercial oak timber. The above-named white oaks are distinct but closely related species, which, together, must be depended upon for the future supply. For the ordinary purposes for which true white oak is used, practically all the trees of this group yield woods that can be interchanged and will serve equally well.

Objectionable Publicity.

In St. Louis the street numbers run one hundred to the block, but the north and south streets have names instead of numbers. So when a street car is running east and west and crosses the north and south streets the conductor says "Jefferson—Twenty-six," or "Grand—Thirty-six," as the case may be.

A birthday party was coming in on one of these cars a short time ago. When the car reached Sarah street and the conductor announced "Sarah—Forty-one," a large woman in the party began beating a small man on the head with an umbrella.

After the conductor had quieted the disturbance he asked the woman what the row was about.

"Why," she said indignantly, "just because I had my forty-first birthday party today, in a nice, quiet, lady-like way, there was no need of him telling you how old I am, so you could bawl it out to the whole car."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

"There goes a man I could have married," she said, softly. "Yes," he chuckled, "and I notice that he keeps on going, as though he were afraid you might try it again."—Detroit Free Press.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

Read Mrs. Herrick's Sworn Statement

STATE OF NEW YORK] ss. ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates and which attracted the attention of strangers. As I grew older my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by my maid good report, had a bottle of Sage and Sulphur, and began to use it. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and glossy as it was when I was a girl. I have used Sage and Sulphur for four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Girl Says "Yes!" to Unconscious Lover
After Auto Accident.

New York, Aug. 1.—The course of true love didn't run smooth on Ocean Parkway this morning, but it ran true. Just as William Frech had dimpled hand of Miss Jennifer McGee in his and pronounced that old, old question, J. T. Eckhoff's automobile hit the rear of Frech's buggy and Miss McGee and Frech catapulted into the air. A taxicab then hit the rear of Mr. Eckhoff's automobile and Mr. Eckhoff and two women were thrown into Ocean Parkway. Mr. Frech's horse ran away. A doctor who was fixing his automobile a block away, ran to the scene and found Miss McGee and Frech lying on the roadway unconscious. Neither, however, was badly hurt. With the doctor bending over her, her unconscious sweetheart by her side and a group of people about her, Miss McGee opened her eyes. Her hand stole to that of the unconscious Mr. Frech and a blissful smile came to her lips. "Oh, Billy, dear," she said, "Yes!"

VIRGINIA OF THE AIR LANES

After Auto Accident.

the inhibited passage over the batteries and stood east along the beach. Wizner abandoned his quarrel and came forward to make the test. He set the helicopter on the deck, where it stood steadily on its slender bamboo legs, its painter hanging over the rail, its top crowned by the screw wings, slanted a little outboard for the launching.

"How will you get her off, Wizner?" asked Mr. Shayne.

"Easy enough," answered Wizner tartly.

"Maybe we'd better make a descent for you," suggested Silberberg. "It may be one of these terrestrial helicopters."

"I'll ask when I want you to go down," replied Wizner, glaring. "You will see whether it's a ground machine or not. May I take down a section of that rail?"

"Certainly," answered Mr. Shayne. "But don't let the helicopter topple off. It might fall on a fisherman. What are you doing, Virginia?"

The girl had stepped forward as if to take a seat in the little cane car of the helicopter.

"Let me sit in it," said she. "I want to imagine how you feel when you get out into space."

"I wish you would," said Wizner. "It will hold her still. It's perfectly safe."

Virginia, laughing at playing paper-weight, entered the car.

"Which is the clutch lever?" she asked.

"This," said the inventor, pointing.

"I'm going to the engine room. When I come back I'll show you how it works."

Mr. Shayne went aft with Wizner in animated conversation, leaving Virginia in the throbbing car. The rail had been removed, and a little push would have been quite sufficient to shove the girl and the machine overboard into the empty air. The thrill of the vibration, the sense of risk or the intense gaze of Silberberg made her face flush. He had never seen her so charming. She laid her hand on the clutch lever.

"I could move this lever a little," said she, "and fly away. I feel as if I should fly!"

"I shall not let you," said he. "I shall hold you!"

"Mr. Silberberg!"

The rebuke was evoked by his putting his arm about her. One white-jeweled hand was slipped behind her, the other laid on her arm, the oily perfumed curls stooping until the red lips approached hers. Perfectly aware of what she was doing, but quite reckless of consequences, Virginia pushed the lever, threw in the clutch—and the wings started. The pull of the vivified mechanism drawing him out to death made Silberberg's very fingers tingle with terror, and he let go girl and car and leaped backward. Under the lift of the wings the car dragged to the edge, slipped off with a grating sound.

They saw it rise skyward like a boy's dart until they shuddered at the shadow that yawned between it and the earth; saw it struck by the far advancing lofier vanguard of the north wind predicted by the fisher captain; saw it hurtled southward before the blast like a feather.

The Condor had a name. She was the Roc, owned by Mr. Finley Shayne, and her home port was Shayne's Hold, in the Catskills. Those who are familiar with the scope, power and spectacular success of Mr. Shayne's operations in aeronautic power stocks in the latter part of the first quarter of the present century will surmise that the Roc was the finest product of the art of aeronautical construction up to that time.

This fateful morning she had moored in the aerial harbor at Mobile, in her berth hard by the lift near the Bienville statue. Mrs. Shayne, a native Mobilian, pleaded indisposition, but went out to see some old houses dear to her youth. Mr. Shayne and their guest, Mr. Max Silberberg, had insisted upon the presence of Virginia Suarez. Mrs. Shayne's niece, on a trip down the bay in the Roc to witness the demonstration of a new flying machine, had been called freckles, overlaying a pink glow. He wore a blue duster shirt with a bright silk cravat. His shoes were scoured gray by the beach sand, and his well shaped hat was powdered with it. His trousers were of cadet gray and were striped down the side; seemingly they were a part of some obsolete uniform. He sat on a great square timber half buried in the sand and had been studying a blue green Portuguese man-of-war cast ashore and rolled up before the breeze, dragging its yard long tentacles. On the beam lay a steel square, a brace and bit, a coil of blueprints, some steel drills and a book of logarithms. The speech of the old fisherman made him look up. He picked up a pair of binoculars from a cast-up crate and studied the distant airship.

"Mo' likely bound for Pensacola, captain," he said. "She's coming this way—a condor with bow rudder."

The aeronaut, drawing nearer, swelled like a great silver moon. The men admired her as they walked inland through soft, trodden sand down to a lower level of yellowed palmettos and scaled a steep dune slope thicketed with curious scrub oaks. Here was hidden a cabin of rough boards with a wide veranda or gallery, on the columns of which were to be seen bleached barnacles, telling of the storm tossed voyage which had brought them hither. Abutting on the cabin by one end was a spacious shed without visible door or window. So thoroughly was the edifice concealed by the oak scrub and the low growing spruce that one might have passed a dozen times within a stone's throw of it without seeing it, and even from the airships its drab roof powdered with blown sand was well nigh invisible. Under the gullies was perfect safety from observation from aloft.

As seen through the glass, the airship was swelled to impressive bulk now. Her rudder stood astern, a stripe of brown against the silver foil of her bilge. On the seaward side ran the darker line of a toy aeroplane—a matter of appearance more than use—and hung beneath by a gossamer nacelle, steady as the deck of a liner, the Roc circled to the west to avoid

COUNCIL'S WORK ON THE SLAB

BY TEAM MATES.

Enabled B. B. Hooks to Win
from Brookport Sunday Afternoon.

THREE EXTRA INNING GAME

Splendid twirling by Council and able work with the stick by his teammates enabled the B. B. Hook baseball team to win from the Brookport Eagles yesterday by a shutout score. The game was played at Brookport in the presence of several hundred enthusiastic rooters, and when the game was over the Hooks were the winners by a score of 8 to 0. For Brookport Kissell, a young collegian, who was imported for the occasion, started the game. However the Hooks waded right into his twisters, and in the sixth inning he retired in favor of Wade, who was retired to hold down the Paducahans only a little better.

Council pitched rings around the heads of the Brookport batters and the best they could do was to gather in two safe hits. At no time was he in danger. In addition to his fine twirling he assisted in his own victory by smashing out a three bagger. In the ninth inning W. Henneberger, the hard hitting first sacker, scored two runners on a three sacker. Manager Williams also did some work with the willow by getting three hits out of four times at bat. Wagner caught a beautiful game for the Hooks and his throwing to the bases was all that could be desired. Harper's fielding at second base was also clever.

New York, Aug. 1.—The alienists employed by Judge Paul Charlton to investigate the mental condition of his son, Porter Charlton, who confessed to the murder of his wife at Lake Como, Italy, reported to consult for the defense that they had found Charlton insane. The alienists were Doctors Allan McLane Hamilton, Dana, Fisher and Arlitz.

The Charlton case was to have come up for hearing before Judge Blair in Jersey City August 11.

Edwin F. Smith, of counsel for Charlton, today asked Judge Blair to put the hearing over until September 20, when the physicians would be in court to give their testimony. Judge Blair granted the request.

They Offered No Resistance

Palestine, Tex., Aug. 1.—At least 15, and it may be 20, negroes, all of them probably unarmed, were hunted down and killed by a mob numbering perhaps 200 or 300 men near Slocum and Denson Springs, in the vicinity of this city, according to the opinion of Sheriff Black.

The sheriff returned after a 24-hour absence in that district, where racial trouble has been acute, and described in some detail the conditions which he found to exist there.

He told of a fierce man hunt in the woods, of riddled bodies found on lonely roads and of the terror almost indescribable among the negro inhabitants in the southeastern part of Anderson county.

Hot-Headed Mob.

Sheriff Black is sure that his estimate of the dead is conservative.

He said he had a careful investigation made, and after telling of its results added this statement:

"We may never find some of the bodies.

"I found the greatest excitement prevailing throughout that section of the country," he said. "Men were going about and killing negroes as fast as they could find them, and, so far as I have been able to ascertain, without any real cause at all. These negroes have never done anything that I could discover. There was just a hot-headed gang hunting them down and killing them."

"We found 11 dead bodies, but from what I have heard, the dead must number 15 or 20. We came across four bodies in one house on a marsh between Denson Springs and Slocum.

"I don't know how many there were in the mob, but I think there must have been 200 or 300 altogether. I understand that Mrs. George Scarborough, of Slocum, saw a party of 40 or 50 go through her field. Some of them cut the wire and went through on horseback and some of them walked through.

Sitting Up With Dead.

"They went across to the house where we found the four dead bodies.

One negro had been killed at this house the night before, and three were sitting up with the remains, one of them being old and white-haired. These three were killed right where they were.

"So far as I can learn the negroes were not armed. I have been somewhat disabled by a runaway accident and therefore could not make a personal investigation of this point, but I sent two deputies out through that country to collect all the arms they could find in the houses of the negroes. They made a thorough search, but found only nine little single-barreled shotguns, none of which seemed to have been right where they were.

Hard to Find Dead.

"It will be difficult to find out just how many were killed, because the dead are scattered all over the woods. Some will probably never be found."

District Judge B. H. Gardner received a telephone message from fired lately, and about 20 shells, all loaded with small shot.

"I am led to believe that the main start of the trouble was due to a controversy over a promissory note. This may not be true, but that is the impression I have at this stage of the investigation. R. Alford, a white man, who is a cripple, had gone on a negro's note. The note came due and he got after the negro to renew it or pay it off something of the kind, and the negro would not do it, and cursed him. The incident caused bad feeling.

Start on Bloody Tour.

"Then I think Mr. Spurges probably had a little trouble with them.

At least they claim that he whipped one. Somebody saw this negro slipping up to Spurges' house. This negoro was killed and then they went to killing them all over the country.

"I have been talking to Mr. Sadler at Grapeland, and he told me that two were killed near the town of Priscilla. I think the most of that crowd of men came from Houston county, and, according to what I am told, the shooting was still going on late yesterday evening.

"They were hunting the negroes down like sheep. We found two in the road that had been shot about 10 o'clock night before last. It was evident that at the time they were killed they were trying to get out of the county, for they had their bundles of clothes with them. Because of my disabled condition, I got to see only two bodies myself, but my deputies found dead negroes scattered around everywhere. Generally they had been killed with buckshot.

"I have now two deputies down

there, and these are working in connection with the rangers who went down last night. If I am able to ride by tomorrow I shall go back myself. I hope that the situation is now under control.

Everybody Afraid.

"The first I heard about this trouble was about 11 o'clock Friday night, when the sheriff of Houston county telephoned me that a white man had killed two negroes in his county, near the line, and wanted to know if I would not meet him at Grapeland and go with him to make the arrest. I told him I was very busy here, but would go if necessary, and he said if that was the case he would attend to it by himself.

Killing him. They thought something ought to be done to stop it. I have been trying to find out something about the situation, but when I got in touch with Priscilla, I could not find the officer there. I did talk with some men there who said there had been several negroes killed, but
